

Mislav Glibo

Team: Croatia

Participating Year(s): 2013,2014

Current position/affiliation: Application Specialist for Centralised and Point of Care Solutions, Roche Diagnostics

The Meaning of Geography to Me

A science that has provided me with lots of useful and interesting information, that helps me understand the world I live in.

Impact of iGeo Preparation on my Life

Studying geography at the university level in a foreign language at the middle of the high school period was an immense challenge. However, thanks to our team leaders and previous Olympic team members, it was a very enriching experience as I acquired a lot of valuable knowledge and skills. I can't compare the Olympiad itself with anything I had participated in previously: flying to Japan for about 12 hours, breathtaking Japanese landscapes and culture, magnificent Polish cities and their tumultuous history, meeting so many great people from all over the world who share your interests, two gold medals in the end, so many memories... Although I eventually decided to study Medicine, recognising spatial patterns, getting around in new areas or cities and understanding them, thinking systematically and asking questions are among the things I learned from geography and will always use them.

Ideas for Promoting Geography

More media coverage in the participating countries, extending the iGeo network to as many countries as possible.

26 June, 2022